Their Excellency's Missive

Good Citizens of Arn Hold,

This last month has brought MANY trials for the people of Arn Hold. However, we have been very pleased about how so many people give of their time and their hearts to help each other. It only proves once again, that this is so much more than just a hobby and that we live in the greatest Barony in the Kingdom.

Time to gear up for many upcoming events in the horizon; Kingdom Collegium, a potential demonstration at the Weiser Renn Faire, Raptor War, Coronation, and of course Museum Comes To Life, all within the next two months. The new, 2007 Kingdom Calendar was given out at the last meeting. Please note dates and times of Baronial events and start planning ahead. Event Stewards, please pay special note as to what day/month your event is set for and watch your deadlines closely.

Speaking of which, we are going to have to be a bit heavy handed with the following: Event Stewards MUST give us and the Baronial Seneschal, printed event registration, printed event announcement, and printed budget requests. ALL of these things MUST be ran through all of us for our ORIGINAL signatures PRIOR to giving anything to a chronicler for print or announcing them electronically or publicly. This also includes speaking with the Crown or their representatives about a Kingdom event to be held in Arn Hold. No events will be approved for funds without getting Baronial approval from ourselves and the Arn Hold Seneschal, as per Baronial policies, Kingdom law and SCA corpora. This includes getting approval before asking for money for events, event copy going to print, or anything else relating to the proposed event. Copies of the forms, timelines and requirements are listed in the Event Stewards Handbook, available from the Baronial Seneschal. We're sorry to be harsh about this, but things have gotten a bit out of control and we are getting negative feedback.

Happier note: There will be Royalty attending Raptor War. We have had some award recommendations, but not nearly enough knowing how many wonderful people we have in our lands. Please, please, please, give us LOTS of names and recommendations. We would love to sit around in the dark, at a fire pit, and hear the tinkling of your medallions as you try to sneak up on us.

Your in Service,

Tor von Büttenberg, OP

My Rouge Comes Home

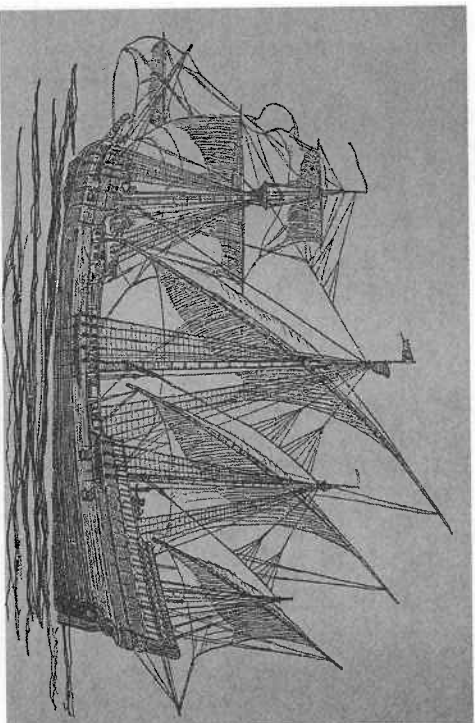

By Duncan McVryce

Aidan McRae is coming home tonight
The sun is sinking low,
Her steps are soft, her heart is light
and filled with joy overflowed.

She wipes away her falling tears
As she hastens to the gate,
Down the darkening road she peers
There's no ship in the harbor, it MUST be late.

BUT Aidan McRae is coming home TONIGHT
O're her heart there spreads a fear,
As her vision is lost in the deep twilight
WAIT! Is that the sound of hooves she hears?

A moment more and what meets her gaze?
Then to her side he quickly alights, says he,
"My bonnie lass, I have turned from my Roguish ways
And your Aidan McRae is home tonight."

Of Courage is Given

By Eileen MacDonald

Once in a great while in court the king will call upon
A crowd of peers to stand before him. Then he calls on one
Who seems to him most worthy to join their august band.
But you cannot give your answer yet; take thought while there you stand.

Do you want to be a Knight, my squire, your kingdom to defend?
We'll send you off to tournaments and battles without end.
You'll give your life in every field, and hill, and wood, AND fen.
Of course, only in the SCA can dead men fight again.

Of chivalry and honor you must be a shining light.
T'were shame if some ungallant lout should be a belted knight.
So learn to dance and play at chess, you'll need to crack some books.
Courtly graces will not bruise you, but they're harder than they look.

Do you want to be a Laurel, in science or in art?
You must be a great example, you must always play your part.
There's less of fun and more of work in every craft you know
For your best and most authentic is all that you dare show.

And can you be a teacher? An apprentice you should take,
Or several, and pass along your knowledge for their sake.
They'll challenge you and try your patience, may not stay the course.
But no one HAS to do it your way. Never think of force.

Do you want to be a Pelican, who feeds her young her blood?
To serve your kingdom's every need, come snow or heat or mud?
If you can be relied on, then relied on you will be,
Whether to be an officer, or make the queen some tea.

It takes a lot of doing to run this game we play,
And though it may be rewarding, it's not a job for pay.
We need you if what you delight in is to give, not get.
This honor that we do you has its price in time and sweat.

One thing that's asked of every Peer is the giving of advice.
And this may be the reason why they ask you to think twice.
You'll sit in circles till your brain and your behind are numb,
While the populace sits waiting for the feast that cannot come.

A peccage is no sinecure, no place on Easy Street.
You'll need to keep upon your toes as well as on your feet.
So keep your vigil, take advice; perhaps some lots you'll cast.
But I see you weep for joy to think they've chosen you at last.

Of Messages from Their Excellencies

Baroness Rachel and myself, have decided to join the 21st century. OK, that is strange, now that I think about. Anyway, We have gone wireless completely.

Of Messages from the Chroniclers

Greetings Good Cousins,

Thank you so much to those of you who have been willing to send me wonderful submissions to fill the Moose Call. If you don't see them in print, please don't be disheartened. It just means that I didn't have space available BUT I will use them, I promise. BTW, an excellent job done by all in getting your submissions to me on time. Gentle Marten was pretty crestfallen when he didn't get to write a Haiku. Thank you!!
