

The Barony of Arn Hold's Moose Call

Their Excellencies Missive

Greetings again Arn Hold,

We want to thank many of you for pouring your skill and enthusiasm into The Idaho Renn Faire. These are wonderful opportunities for us to show off what it really is we do.

Thank you to HE Clare for her huge efforts for the Faire itself and for giving the SCA a chance to truly shine.

Please remember that We have decided to liaison with the Renn Faire board to determine the Barony's involvement for 2013. Please contact us with any feedback you have about the Faire and suggestions for our part in it next year.

Each month We write this missive. We write it ahead of somethings actually happening. It makes it...interesting. You feel a bit insincere to be writing about things that have not yet happened so We are going at this a little differently.

We honestly appreciate the hard work HE Giliana, HE Jofrior and their staffs have been putting into the 1348 Event. We have no doubt that by the time you all read this we will have enjoyed a great day of fun with an A&S competition that really lived up to reputation our Barony. We are excited to see the results.....

Going Forward:

Please come join us at another Baronial Potluck on November 10th (more details coming).

Seneschal's Missive

Greetings, Arn Hold, on this beautiful Autumn day:

As the days shorten and the nights lengthen I am looking forward to many upcoming events and activities. I even enjoy planning the upcoming yearly budgeting. It's time to decide on next year's fundraising and expenses. Please let you officers and guild leaders know of ideas you have for 2013.

We have a new Kingdom Seneschal, Katya in Raudhara. Please send your welcome to her as she takes on this large role for Artemisia.

In closing, thank you to the many people who provided demonstrations, donated equipment and pavilions, and demonstrated your skills at the recent demonstrations. I have never had so many people ask about SCA events and activities as I did at the Renn Faire. Vivat to all participants!

Chronicler's Corner

Changes are coming to the Moose Call, which will (hopefully) make it more accessible to more members of the populace.

Recently, the Financial Committee and the Chronicler met to discuss transitioning the Moose Call to a free, electronic only newsletter. The benefits of going to such a format include reducing the overall workload of the Chronicler, reducing the reporting requirements and work of both the Chronicler and the Reeve, reducing the financial liability of the Barony, and immediate availability of the most recent information to both members of the Barony and potential new members.

While the Financial Committe and the Chronicler understand that going to electronic only distribution necessarily means that those populace members with no or slow internet service will have difficult access to the Moose Call, it was felt that the benefits far outweighed the potential losses.

To this end, effective immediately, the Moose

Call will no longer accept paper subscription or electronic subscription requests. All current paper and electronic subscriptions will continue to be fulfilled through the December issue.

Beginning with the January 2013 issue, primary distribution of the Moose Call will be via the Baronial website. Subscribers with a subscription balance after the December 2012 issue will be given the option of either receiving a refund of their subscription balance, or of donating it to the Baronial accounts. Those subscribers will be contacted along with distribution of the December issue.

Assembling the 2013 Baronial Budget

Officers and Guild heads pay heed! As we finish up 2012, we need to start preparing the budget for 2013. There are many advantages for having a budget planned for 2013: 1) The Budget approval covers all of the expenses you have listed, so you do not need to get them re-approved later in the year. 2) It helps the Barony plan for what needs there are in income to cover expenses. 3) It is required by Society to have an accurate budget for the year.

So, please look at what you would like to do/spend in 2013 and send to me (reeve@baronyarnhold.org) a budget before the end of the year. If you would like to know what you spent money on in 2012, I am happy to provide you detailed information.

Random Carp That I Have Learned...

A look at modern practices and their medieval sources

By K. Braden von Sobernheim

“King James VI, Demon Hunter.” It doesn’t have the same draw as “Abraham Lincoln, Vampire Hunter,” does it? The difference is that James really was obsessed with the occult. In 1590, King James VI of Scotland personally oversaw workings of the North Berwick Witch Trials where 70 individuals were accused of raising a storm to sink James’ ship as he sailed home with his new bride, Anne of Denmark. He also published Daemonologie in 1597, presenting the idea of a vast conspiracy of satanic witches threatening the nation. In 1604, just after he became King of England, James I passed a new Witchcraft Act, where raising spirits became a capital offense.

These views pushed forth into arts, the new world, and even the Bible. Shakespeare’s Macbeth is based around the King’s view of witchcraft. The witch craze carried through the Jacobean era and encouraged the Salem Witch Trials at the end of the 17th century in Massachusetts. Finally, in the King James Bible (1611) Exodus 22:18 was changed from “Thou must not suffer a poisoner to live,” to “Thou must not suffer a witch to live.” (I’ll wait while you go grab your Bible from the shelf). And now you know more random carp.
